Supreme Court Revokes

The Special Election for the Vacant Directorship in the Tenth Dis-

A special dispatch to the Post-Dispatch from Jefferson City Monday states that the Supreme Court, Division No. 2, has ordered the St. Louis School Board to revoke the appointment of judges and clerks made Sat-

Court for attachments against members o the Republican faction of the School Board and for their punishment for contempt.

B. Haughton directly after return had been compelling the appointment of new judges and clerks for the Tenth District school

In addition, an affidavit was filed to the effect that Otto E. Lanman, appointed as a Republican, was not a registered voter.

Republican, was not a registered voter.

After filing the denial to the return Attorney Haughton applied for attachments against the Republican factionists in the School Board compelling them to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of the Supreme Court.

No one appeared for the School Board.

Judge Gentt of Division No. 2, in which the matter is being heard, stated that he had received a letter from Attorney Stark of the board, alleging that notice had been received by the board too late to prepare counter affidavits to those presented by the petitioners.

Chairman Elmer E. Lacey of the School Board Elections Committee, was seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter immediately after news of the Susceme Court order reached St. Louis.

He affected to treat the matter lightly, so far as the final result was concerned, "We have only to appear in court and justify our course," said Mr. Lacey. "We'll have no difficulty in doing that. As I understand it, we do not have to appear before the Supreme Court until next week."

The conspiracy which the Republicans are attempting to carry out in defiance of the Supreme Court was thoroughly exploited at a meeting of Democrats held Sunday morning at Coleman and North Market streets, at which Thomas Ward presided. Chairman Hugh Brady of the Democratic Cluster Chairman Hugh Brady of the Democratic Chairman Hugh Brady of the Central Committee announced that $150 had been veted to the district campaign expenses and costs of litigation.

During the work of securing affidayits Sunday afternoon it developed that the alleged Democratic judges appointed by the Busites for the Twenty-fourth Ward had been selected by John Henry Pohlman, one of the most pronounced partisan Republican ward workers on Chaincey I Filiave her of and not for the individual members who had been served with separate writs. It was ruled to be faulty for this reason. Attorney Haughton, representing Democratic candidate John P. Kelleher, filed a denial to the return immediately after the fact that judges appointed by the board last Saturday as Democrats were Republicans and it was well supported by affidavits.

The judges and clerks specifically hamed are F. B. Filley, R. B. Van Sant, Patrick Callahan, William Tierney and B. Francis. In one of the affidavits the fact was set forth that F. B. Filley, appointed as a Democrat in the One Hundred and Fortyseventh precinct, is a nephew of Chauncey I. Filley and a well-known working Republican. and not for the individual members who the same which was had by the petitioners for preparing their affidavits, notice having been served Saturday upon the rebellious members that their return would be contested Monday morning.

Board Attorney Stark as soon as he heard of the order. He failed to find-him in his office.

Attorney R. Brownrigg Haughton left for Jefferson City on the fast mail train at 3 o'clock Monday morning. He was armed with affidavits as to the proceedings, both in committee and at the meeting of the School Board Saturday, and was accompanied by those interested in compelling observance of the Supreme Court with by the recalgitrant members of the Bus faction of the School Board.

School Board Attorney Charles B. Stark, representing the Busites, sent a letter and telegram to the court. His position is somewhat anomalous in view of the warning he gave the Bus faction before they deliberately defied the Democrats representation in the Tenth District school election, set for Tuesday.

The affidavits presented to the Supreme Court by Attorney Haughton were secured during Sunday afternoon and evening from persons who were present at the proceedings of the School Board and its Elections Committee Saturday and from others who knew the political affiliations of the men appointed by the board as alleged Democrats. These affidavits set forth the contemptuous language used by Directors Koenig and Godfrey toward the Supreme Court and establish the fact that while some of the men named as Judges and clerks are Democrats, they have been placed in precincts where the Republicans will not have to steal votes, while in precincts where chicanery will be necessary for their success, Republicans in disguise have been named as Democrats.

At one side of the platform a bronze sphynx rested on a pedestal, while overhanging the center glimmered a great electric star, from the middle of which flashed rays of yellow, while purple marked the seven points. Beneath the flaming star was suspended a scroil of parchment, engrossed with mystic symbols. A pedestal supported a tree, whose trunk and limbs were closely entwined with vines, symbols of the union celebrated before it. Fourteen members of the society, comprising the linner circle (the mystic title of which none but themselves are permitted to learn) mounted the platform. In the center sat the unknown adept successor of W. Q. Judge, as the head of the Esoteric branch of the society. It was his first appearance before the society. He was so heavily veiled that it was impossible to distinguish the features. A robe of purple reached to the feat, so that even the sex of the adept was not suggested. The other members of the circle wore a regalia of purple bands fringed with silver buillon. Behind the inner circle were seated thirty ladies and gentlemen, comprising the "Out Guard," while the hall was crowded with members of the Esoteric branch. Bride and groom joined hands before the mysterious veiled adept. Genevieve Kluger presented her basket of lotus to the unknown, who took from it a roil of parchment, which he handed to Mrs. Keightley, who read aloud a pledge signed by the couple renewing the promise given in a previous state of existence to loyally work together.

"Politics is not bothering me a bit now," he said. "Don't you see that Gov. McKinley is aiready nominated? I told you at the inception of the campaign that this would be the result. If I had had time I would have stopped at Canton on my return West and congratulated our next President.

"Joe Manley sent a message by me to Gov. McKinley and I am sorry I didn't have time to deliver it. The message was that Manley now stands ready to go back to Maine, take off his coat and roll up for McKinley the largest majority that State has ever given any candidate for President."

"The State Convention at St. Joseph next week will instruct for Gov. McKinley, and that will put a stop to all efforts, open and secret, to head him off.

"I don't know who will be elected delegates-at-large, and don't cara. My interest in the contest stops at McKinley."

"Do you apprehend any danger from the Harrison movement?"
"None whatever. Gen. Harrison is in no sense a candidate. His name won't be presented at St. Louis. His real friends don't propose to permit him to be used in the manner the desperate opposition to Mc-Kinley is now striving might and main to use him. Gen. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.-J. H. D. Rievens of St. Louis, State President of the A. P. A., and a member of the Supreme Council, which will meet here next week, arrived last night. Mr. Stevens refuses to say anything for publication concerning the attitude of the order towards McKinley and Bland, but it is said that he will lead the fight on the two men when the Supreme Council comes to the point in its deliberations where its stand on presidential candidates is to be taken.

Indications point to an extremely lively ression of the Supreme Council. President Stevens is to have opposition from his own State in his endeavor to line up the Council against McKinley.

Haughawaut, the "friendly Indian of the Ozarks," who is one of the delegates from Missouri, is coming to the Supreme Council to openly fight Stevens. Haughawaut is backed by a considerable element of the order in the State which insists that it will not obey the dictate of the order to fight against McKinley.

DEMOCRATIC BNTHUSIASM.

Since the Free Silver Declarations at Sedalia, Victory Is Sure.

Hon. Edward Robb of Perry County, ex-Assistant Attorney-General of the State, and Hon. A. J. Connelly of Johnson County, ex-Assistant Adjutant-General, are among the prominent Democrats from the interior of Missouri who are in the city Monday. They belong to the young element of the party now in control of its affairs, and both are recognized leaders in their respective

Mr. Robb is a candidate for the congressional nomination in the Thirteenth District against a big field, His opponents are Frank Dearing of Jefferson County, Assistant United States District Attorney; Wm. Anthony of Washington County, Mastin Cape of Dent and Marion Carter and B. F. Abbott of St. Francois. The Congressional Committee meets at De Soto Tuesday to fix the time and place for holding the nominating convention.

Mr. Robb declares that the Thirteenth District can be easily reclaimed with a 16 to 1 candidate on a 16 to 1 platform, but that nothing short of that can save it.

He says that 99 in every 100 voters of the district are for free silver, irrespective of party affiliations, and that they will listen to no sort of compromise.

Col. Connelly has withdrawn from the race in the Sixth District against Congressman D. A. De Armond under the pressure from friends in all parts of the State, who for various reasons, want him to have a place on the State ticket, and is now a candidate for Railroad Commissioner to succeed "Farmer" Hickman, who wants the nomination for Lieutenant Governor. The contest in the Sixth District is thus harrowed down between Congressman D. A.

ceed "Farmer" Hickman, who wants the nomination for Lieutenant Governor. The contest in the Sixth District is thus narrowed down between Congressman De Armond and C. C. Dickinson of Henry County. The only other candidates thus far announced for Railroad Commissioner are B. F. Bourin of Scotland County and Capt. Bronaugh of Henry, a brother of the St. Louis Coal Oil Inspector.

One of the main reasons urged for Col. Conneily to sink his congressional aspirations at present is that the State ticket may have the benefit of his pleasing and convincing oratory on the stump.

He is one of the most effective speakers in Missouri, and the present prospect is that the only weakness of the ticket that will be nominated at Jefferson City in August will be in its lack of experienced stumpers.

Col. Connelly's admirers declare he can supply this prospective deficiency as few men in the State can who are liable to be put on the ticket.

With the exceptions of Maj. James R. Waddill and ex-State Senator Nat Shelton, none of those mentioned for Governor are considered even first-rate speakers, though in point of ability and popularity they are all of the highest rank.

Treasurer Lon V. Stephens, Judge James Gibson and Maj. day of the shooting of Edward Koch by Officer Peter Nelson last Saturday morning at Sixth and Cass avenue.

A verdict of accident was rendered, the officer being exonerated on the ground that he fired with the purpose of halting an escaping prisoner and not with intent an escaping prisoner and not with intent to kill.

The first witness called was Joe Matthews, the boy who was with Koch when he was killed. The confession in regard to the burglary, which he made after his arrest, was read to him and he admitted it to be correct. His testimony, showed that the officer had called to both boys to stop. Matthews did so, but Koch refused.

Both the policeman and Matthews called to him to hait, but he kept on running and Nelson fired. Nelson at no time had his hands on Koch.

Frank Koch, the dead boy's uncle, gave him a bad reputation.

Bergt. Church testified that it was customary for officers to act as Nelson had done when it was certain that a felony had been committed and they were so engaged with other prisoners that they could not pursue a fugitive. The police had no instructions on this point.

Officer Lyrch also testified that he would have shot as Nelson did. The only instructions received from the department were to be careful in the use of the revolver.

Officer Nelson testified that he caught hold of both boys and that Koch broke from him when he 'accused him of having robbed some store. After calling to him to stop he fired. He did not mean to hit the boy, but only to frighten him.

"On April 5 the authorities, wanting to repair that room, put us in a still smaller one, not quite 14 feet wide and about 18 feet long. The night of April 3 nine more prisoners were put in with us. This made thirty-three in a room 18 feet 10 inches by 18 feet. The floor of the room was blooks of cement. We had some movable platforms of plank to lie on. They were each 4½ feet wide by 6½ feet long, and they were 5 inches high at the foot and 7 inches high at the head. There were six of these in the room and those that could not drowd on them slept on what little remaining space there was on the cement floor. We had to lie down at 9 o'clock in the evening and not arise until 6 o'clock in the morning, and to he down again from 11 a.m. until 1 p. m.
"I soon found that some of the prisoners were criminals and some political prisoners. They were thrown in together indiscriminately. There were about as many negroes as whites. With a few exceptions, the prison warden selected a criminal prisoner from each room, to whom he gave authority over the rest, calling him the President of the room, probably in sarcasm of the republican form of government. The presidents and assistants were given slave whips, which they often used for their own amusement in a way that was more cruel than interesting to their victims.

"As near as I could find out there was not a political prisoner in the prison who had been taken under arms. They were marely shut up on suspicion that they sympathised with the rebels or intended to Join them. One of the nine imprisoned the night of April 8 was a boy only 13 years old and small for his age. One old man named Jose Marero, who was confined as a political prisoner, had lost the use of his right arm by disease and was just able to get around. "A little after 6 in the morning we were each of us given. a very small cup of coffee. The first meal of the day, if it could be called a meal, came after 9 c'clock.

As they neared the pier a large crowd gathered there. When the boats came up a score of slient, swarthy men forced their way to the front, and as soon as the boats touched the landing stage they leaped into them and were immediately rowed to the steamer, which had not anchored, but kept circling about with all steam up. Just as soon as the strangers were put on board the mysterious craft made off with all speed to the southwest. The general opinion among seafaring men here is that another Cuban expedition has successfully got away and that the steamer already had on board arms and ammunition.

Sharp Fighting in Pinar del Rio.

NEW YORK, May 4.—A dispatch to the Herald from Havana, Cuba, says:

All Havana is anxiously discussing the battle in the mountains of Pinar del Rio province. It is believed that the insurgents, who persistently attacked Gen. Ynolan's troops far back from Carcarajicara to the saw were led by Maceo in person. The sironghold stormed by Ynclan's forces was not properly speaking a fort. There is an old ranch on the top of the stony hill at Carcarajicara, whose sides form a precipitous descent to the road which winds through bold rocks and are not wide enough for a column to spread out to advahtage. There is little timber or brush around.

The insurgents fortified the road in two places with barricades, one above the other, with the intention of preventing the Spanish troops from reaching the hills, where the main rebel camp is located. The officials say the insurgents fought desperately and poured down shot from above upon the troops, who were practically shut in a cut in the ravine. Sharp Fighting in Pinar del Rio.

Mrs. Barada hurried to the bedside of her mother.

After ascertaining her condition she returned in haste to her own home to get the telephone number of the family physician, Dr. Eustathius Chancellor.

Passing through the house to the diningroom she opened the elevator door to take that conveyance to the second floor.

The elevator was not there, as she supposed, but was on the third floor, and she stepped into space.

The fall to the basement was only twelve feet and would not necessarily have caused serious injury. In falling, however, the unfortunate lady's head struck the edge of the elevator drum or wheel, crushing in the back of the skull in a frightful manner.

Within a few moments after the accident Andrew and Elsie Barada, the son and daughter of the unfortunate lady, returned home from a visit.

Not finding their mother they made a search for her, going to the Ghio residence, Pauley's drug store and the house of a neighbor.

They returned home and went to the elevator shafting. A glance down the shaft disclosed to their horrified gaze the body of their mother lying cold in death with a gaping wound in the back of her head.

Their cries aroused the entire household and tender hands soon lifted the lifeless form from the basement.

Mrs. Ghio had not been informed of the death of her daughter Monday morning, as it was feared that the shock in her condition would kill her. She was, however, much improved and able to sit up. The sad duty of informing her has been left to Rev. Fr. Brown of St. Alphonsus Church.

The death of Mrs. Barada will be keenly feit, by thousands of the poor of the city. A woman of great wealth, she never refused an appeal for charity, either from individuals or the many charitable institutions to which she was a constant giver.

Mrs. Barada, who is the wife of Frank X. Barada, of the real estate firm, the Barada-Ghio Realty Co., was 38 years old. She leaves three grown children—Andrew, Elsie and Ghio Barada.

The funeral will take place at 9 a. m. Tuesday from St. Alphonsus' Church to Calvary Cemetery.

An inquest was held Monday morning to ascertain the cause of the death of Mrs. Mary D. Barada, who met with such a sad accidental death late Saturday night. The verdict was "death by accident."

The circumstances surrounding the mishap are peculiarly sad. The Barala residence is at 1039 North Grand avenue. Next door south is the residence of Mrs. J. P. Ghio, the mother of Mrs. Barada.

About 11 o'clock Saturday night a servant hurried from Mrs. Ghio's bedside and informed her daughter that Mrs. Ghio, who is 71 years of age, had been stricken with paralysis.

Albert E. Young Backer was accompanied by John Moran, a boy of his own age living at 2207 Benton street. Backer told the desk Sergeant that he and Moran had taken Mary Frost and Carrie Staple, aged 12 and 15 years, to Forest Park, where they had remained all afternoon.

At 6 o'clock they started home and got off the car at Third street and Washington avenue, where Carrie Staple left them and went to her home.

While he and Moran and Mary Frost were talking on the corner a man approached them and ordered Mary to go with him. Mary refused and the man grabbed her wrist and Backer says he drew a revolver from his pocket and ordered her to accompany him, pointing the weapon at her head.

Mary was found in the rooms of her mother, in the Ashley Building, at Broadway and O'Fallon street, Monday morning, and her story was considerably different to that of Backer's.
She said that while she was standing on the corner talking to Backer and Moran a nicely dressed man came up to her and told her she was in bad company and said he wanted to put her on a car and send her home.

The police' discredit her statement because Dr. August R. Reber, assistant superintendent of the City Hospital, examined the villain's alleged blood encrusted on the blade and pronounced it to be paint, purple ink or dye.

Miss Adams is indignant because the public servants have not accepted her story and are doing nothing to capture her assailant. She is sorry the police heard of her experience and she is almost as *X-hausted from repeating her version of it as she was from the struggle with the intruder.

Why Nettle should steep a knife in thin red paint or spill ink over it to palm off a bit of imagination as an actual fact, is a problem waich the police cannot answer, but the stain on the blade does not appear to be blood, and Dr. Reber declares that the microscope proves that it is not blood.

"Blood can be told as easily as day from darkness," said he, "and that stuff on the knife blade is not blood."

Nettle is rather a pretty girl of 18. She is frail and languid, and resides with ner widowed mother in two rooms and a kitchen at 1837 South Seventh street. She used to work for the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., but she gave up her employment a few months ago when her mother became ill.

To quote Mr. Ponderbury, "this is the story of the knife" as told by Miss Adams:

"I was alone in the house and was dressing my hair in the middle room when I heard a noise in the kitchen. There was a table knife on the dresser. I thought as I started for the kitchen to investigate the noise I would take back the knife to its place.

"When I opened the door and walked into the kitchen I saw a big man, wearing a mask. I started back to the middle room, but he caught me by the arm and said:

"To told him supper was over and I could only give him some cold food. He then, struck me with a stufy on the right arm and on the side of the nead. He caught me by the throat so that I could hardly breathe and pushed me against the door. I then struck at him with the knife. I cut him on the left arm below the elbow. He let go of my throat, shook blood from his arm and ran out of the kitchen and into the yard. I walked into the middle room

The bloody-looking knife was beside her, and a pool of blood was on the kitchen floor.

"I don't see how they can say that it was red ink or paint, for we have nothing of the kind in the house," said Mrs. Adams.

She added that she put Nettle to bed and applied restoratives, which brought her to. No doctor was called, but Nettle remained in bed recovering from the shock until Sunday afternoon. There were no marks on her throat Monday morning.

The police of the Second District are still employed in the double task of looking for the unknown villain in the case and finding out a motive to prompt the girl to cover a knife with red ink and call it blood.

Nettle says her assailant was about 30 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weighed 160 pounds.

OPPOSED TO WOMEN BARBERS

An Ex-President of the Union Wants Them Shut Out.

The question of admitting women to the Barbers' Union has got Julius Vaupel into trouble.

Mr. Vaupel is an ex-President of the union, and his opinion is valued by the members. When it was reported that he favored admitting women as members the barbers began calling on him to talk about the matter.

He thinks it is a business which women cannot make a success of, and the barbers should discourage them from attempting it. Mr. Vaupel said he would address the union Monday night on the subject, and would urge that the women applicants be rejected.

of a little experience he had last Saturday night.

He was walking along Spring avenue, near Lindell boulevard, when he saw a young man carrying a large roll of garden hose presumably stolen from the residence of some fashionable West Ender.

Sergt. Collins placed the man under arrest and marched him to the patrol box at Grand and Lindell avenues, two long blocks east, to call the wagon.

The prisoner, whoever he was, had his wits about him and it did not take him a week to map out his line of action.

With a quick movement he swung himself about, threw the coll of hose over the Sergeant's head and fairly flew.

The young man ran north on Grand avenue towards Beers' Hotel and became lost in the crowd.

Hundreds of fashionable people were out promenading and driving, as it was still early in the evening, and much merriment was created by the sight of the dude Sergeant with a coll of heavy hose caressing his neck and shoulders.

Sergt. Collins deposited the hose in the patrol wagon and sent it to the station, but he was so greatly embarrassed by the occurrence that he did not report it to Capt. Keeble until Sunday night.

REFORM IS POSSIBLE.

Dr. Boyd Argues That Sin Can Be Crushed in Large Cities.

There will be a meeting of credit men of leading local rescantile houses and banks the latter part of this week to organize a branch of the National Credit Association and to select delegates to the national convention of the association, which meets at Toledo, O., Juff 252.

The meeting here will be held at the Mercantile Culb and from the interest at ready manifested will be well attended. The St. Louis members of the association are: C. C. Childs, Nonotuck Silk Oc.; R. H., Blank, Blanks et al. and Coffee Co.; F. Ballaman, Rice. Silk & Co.; George H. Blank, Blanks et al. and Coffee Co.; F. Ballaman, Rice. Silk & Co.; George T. The association has active branches in New York, New Orleans, Memphia, Detroit, Chicago, Toledo and other trade centers, and now it is proposed to enlist St. Louis in the work.

that has its agents in every ward in the city.

At the close of the World's Fair the streets were filthy. The city was paying $18.50 per mile for cleaning them. The Federation asked permission to clean the down town streets for six months. The city granted it the privilege. It raised $30.000 and cleaned the streets from May to November, demonstrating that it could be done in a most thorough manner for only $8.50 a mile instead of poorly for $18.50 a mile, The city learned its lesson, and began to do its own street cleaning.

The doctor referred to the civil service law, applicable to municipal offices. This he said had destroyed the power of the "political pull." Thuggery and fraud at the ballot-box had been stopped, and more than a score of ruffians had been sent to the penitentiary.

The Federation in Chicago avoided the paliot-box had been stopped, and more shan a score of ruffians had been sent to the penitentiary.

The Federation in Chicago avoided the Independent ticket in politics and gained thereby. Instead of nominating candidates, the object has been to secure a non-partisan body of voters who will agree to vote only for honest men. Voters' leagues were formed and the result has been that to secure the vote of these voters' leagues it has been absolutely necessary to nominate good men.

In concluding, Dr. Boyd said: "The people are omnipotent. Once aroused to a true sense of the oppression of bad government, they will make short work of bosses, boodlers or parties. Politicians and their lackeys may jest and sneer at individual utterances, at solitary and lonely men pleading for the right, but let them beware how they trifie with public opinion, for that will grind them to powder. One man's opinion may be weak and insignificant, but the opinion of the combined conscience and goodness of a great city is almighty."

Reply was made that he was probably away on business, but Mrs. Bissell was not antisfied and wirted Chief Harrigan. Detectives falled to find the man.

Sunday morning he walked into the hotel sober, but disheveled and dirty. He told Chief Clerk Moore that he had been on a drunk and wanted to sober up. at first, but it soon became apparent that the poor brutes were in imminent danger of drowning.

They swam to the south wall and tried to climb up, but that was impossible. They could get no foothold on the smooth rocks, and after every effort they fell back and disappeared beneath the surface of the water. The danger of the dogs appealed at once to the bystanders and dozens of suggestions were made as to how to save them. One man ordered that a boat be manned. There wasn't any boat to man, so some-body else suggested that a rope be let down. Nobody had a rope and nobody seemed inclined to undertake the task of shinning down a rope and saving a couple of 100-pound dogs.

Finally some boys who were fishing at the north end of the pond hit upon the idea of tempting the doys to that end by thrownig sticks to them. It worked all right.

The dogs grasped the situation after they were almost exhausted and swam to the shelving bank. They were so tired when they left the water they could hardly drag themselves up the incline.

That idea that struck every person who witnessed the incident was that the wonder of the matter was that there were not two children in the water instead of two dogs.

Still the cohorts of Diddelbock are undismayed. They are still alive and appear to be thankful that they are.

There were rumors of war around Sportsman's Park this morning. The hangers-on are waiting and watching for the storm to break. Meanwhile they told each other in whispers what Von der Ahe would do to Diddlebock for losing three straight games to Chicago.

'I am still manager of the St. Louis team, knockers to the contrary notwithstanding.

'I had an understanding with Mr. Von der Ahe this morning relative to the business management of the club. Hereafter Mr. Oliver will tend the gate and take charge of the receipts. I will draw upon him for hotel bills, railroad fare and general expenses.

All the St. Louis players claim that that eld blame-bearer, "luck," was against them in the series at Chicago.

"I never saw such a run of luck," said Second Baseman Quinn at the park this morning. "For the first time this year we hit the ball hard, but it seemed to always go right at a fielder. If the Chicago men touched the sphere it landed just beyond the ends of our fingers.

"Here is an instance: In Saturday's game we had them going. Parrott and Cross were on first and second, with nobody out. They started to make a double steal. Reilly, the Chicago shortstop, ran to back up third base on the catcher's throw to head Cross off at third. He ran right into Cooley's liner that was good for three bases. Cross was at third and Parrott on second. It was an easy triple play."

Breitenstein said that he had lots of speed and curves, but that the Colts would hit him anyhow.

Manager Diddlebock has protested Sun-

Quinn says that he could not umpire game of quoits.

All the players are in fine shape. Douglas and Quinn collided in Chicago while going after a fly, but neither was hurt.

The old players speak in terms of the highest praise of the work of Meyers and Douglas.

Although the boys lost three games they feeel more confident than when they left. This feeling is inspired by the way in which they have been hitting the ball.

That splendid aggregation of good fellows and great bail players, the Philadelphia sase Ball Club, is at the Lindell. Manager Silly Shettsline has nineteen players with tim. mant.
Why shouldn't they? Are they not the greatest lot of hitters and fielders ever gotten together? All they wanted to do was to win the flag this three years past.

Now that they have Billy Nash, the famous captain and third baseman of the old Boston champions, to teach them the art of scientific base-running and run-getting, what can stop them?

Heretofore the Quakers have been weak in the box. This year they have in Taylor, Orth and Carsey, three first-class pitchers. Willie McGill is also showing up in first-class shape.

If their pitchers hold out, look out for the Phillies.

"Things have been moving pretty smoothly with us," said Mr. Shettsline this morning. "Indeed, we have had so little trouble that it is not even interesting for us.

"We expect trouble from the Browns. That man Breitenstein always does make us hustle to beat him, and I hear that they have been saving him up for us. Well, we must do our best."

As Mr. Shettsline said Breitenstein is the bete noir of the Quakers. The little left-hander can beat the big sluggers easier than he can a team of amateurs. Last year he shut them out with four hits on one memorable occasion and won all his games against them.

Orth, the Phillies' "lucky man," will do the twirling for Philadelphia, but what chance has the mascot against the only Breitenstein?

A damper was put on the members of the Century and Cycling Club teams, as well as the scores of other riders now training for the Forest Park road race, by Park Commissioner Ridgely's order, promulgated Sunday, that hereafter wheelmen shall limit their speed in the park to eight miles an hour. While Bert Harding was taking a warming-up spin Sunday he was stopped by a mounted policeman, who informed him of the new order.

This rule, if enforced during the week as well as on Sundays, will put an end to training over the course and compel those entered for the Forest Park race to do their work over another road. While this rule may be justified on Sundays, when the park is so crowded with vehicles as to make fast riding difficult and possibly dangerous, it seems that Mr. Ridgely might relax it for a couple of hours each evening on week days without in any way restricting the rights and pleasures of the general public.

Harding lost no time in communicating the policeman's warning to the officers of the St. Louis Cycling Club, who immediately realized the importance of the move. The park being out of the way as a training ground, another must be secured. A conference was held and the result was that negotiations have already been opened to secure control of the old Pastime track at De Hodiamont. The Cycling Club officers argue that the interclub road race over the Fair Grounds course will be almost the same as a track race and hence the training might as well be done on a track. The De Hodiamont grounds will make excellent training quarters, being provided with lockers and baths.

Mr. Ridgely's order will bear particularly hard on the Century Club team. This club has, at considerable expense, established training quarters near the park for the express purpose of utilizing it as a training ground both for the Forest Park and interclub races. Two tandem teams to pace the men have been organized, to begin Monday evening. If this order is strictly enforced it will force the club to get new quarters and seriously disarr

The joint committee having the interclub race in charge visited the Fair Grounds yesterday, where they met Secretary Auli and completed all arrangements. Of course, the oftener the riders pass the stand the more exciting the race will be for the spectators, a circumstance that should increase the attendance. It was definitely decided to finish the race on the mile track in front of the grandstand. The track will be rolled and made as solid as possible.

Dan Honig, the St. Louis turfman, arrived Monday morning with his string of a dozen. He came direct from Forsythe, where the spring meeting ended Saturday. Honig's horses are stabled in the west yard, where the horsemen gathered to take a look at Magnet. The son of St. Blaise is looking in fine shape and will probably start in the Inaugural.

Many horses were galloping on the track this morning, but no fast work was attempted. Several of the new starting machines

THOMAS DAVIDS, WHO THRASHED GROVER CLEVELAND.

Thomas Davids, the only man who ever spanked Grover Cleveland, died a few days ago at San Dimas, a small town near Pasadena, Cal. Some time back he had been the proud recipient of a letter from the President of the United States asking after his health and showing by the tenor of the epistle that a man who has twice been chosen the Executive of his country was of too large a caliber to cherish a grudge against the man who thrashed him years ago.

In 1843, when the Rev. Richard Cleveland and family moved to Clinton, Onelda County, N. Y., Davids was sexton of the Presbyterian Church in that town. At that time Grover Cleveland was a boy of 6, chubby, large for his age, rather mischlevous and exceedingly stubborn. He contracted the habit of throwing snowballs at the stove in the church over which the sexton had dominion.

This amused Grover, but injured the stove and annoyed the sexton. The latter lost his temper upon one historic occasion, placed the future President across his knee and spanked him soundly. Nobody in this or any other country will be surprised to hear that Grover Cleveland did not litter a word under this infliction. He refused to speak to the sexton for several weeks after the crisis had been passed. Half a dozen times after that Davids had occasion to lay hands upon young Grover, but the boy's spirit remained unbroken.

It is certain that Davids was the only man who ever spanked Grover Cleveland, as the latter's father remarked to the sexton that the boy probably needed more whippings than he received. The Rev. Mr. Cleveland always preferred to spare the rod and let the child run the risk of spoiling. Thomas Davids lost sight of Grover Cleveland for many years thereafter, but had heard much about him for some time past. Davids was very proud of the letter he received from the President, but was unlucky enough to lose it some time before his death.

THE WESTERN'S RECEPTION. Opening of the Rowing Season Fittingly Celebrated. The handsome boathouse of the Western Rowing Club, at the foot of Dorcas street, Rowing Club, at the foot of Dorcas street, was yesterday the center of the aquatio brawn of the city. The occasion was the all-day reception given to their friends by this well known and popular club to celebrate the opening of the rowing season. Many prominent citizens of the city were visitors at some time during the day.

During the forenoon addresses were made by President Lang, Judge Rassieur, Collector Ziegenheim and others. The large hall in the second story of the building was tastily decorated, each group of decorations being in commemoration of some hard fought victory won by the club, and the crossed oars or other aquatic devices bearing a suitable inscription identifying them with the particular event of which they were relics. During the forenoon there was a barge race between members of the club divided into teams as benedicts and bachelors, in which the half dozen married contestants were the victors.

which the half dozen married contestants were the victors.

After the banquet in the afternoon an interesting programme of athletic events, musical selections and variety sketches was enjoyed by the large crowd of visitors, many of them being members of other local rowing clubs who came to the Western's headquarters in their own boats. The harbor back of the house at this time presented a beautiful appearance with the gay colors of the fluttering pennants on every style of boat owned by St. Louis clubs, from the swift steam launch, and trim, high-masted sailing yachts, down to shells and skiffs.

President Lang states that the fleet of the Westerns is in fine shape, the different crews are training faithfully and that they propose to make an aggressive campaign in an effort to secure first honors in local regattas. The Westerns still hold the Faust Cup, and will quickly accept a challenge from any club that believes that it is strong enough to beat the South Side Club out of the handsome trophy.

It is estimated that fully 1,500 visitors passed through the boathouse during the day.

SCOTT JACKSON'S TRIAL

Testimeny Regarding the Place Where Pearl Bryan Was Found.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 4.-J. B. Locke, who owns the farm where the body of Pearl Bryan was found, testified in the Jackson Bryan was found, testified in the Jackson trial this morning that he found two spots of blood on the ground and also found blood on the leaves of the bushes. He also said that he saw marks of the wheels of a carriage on the grass close beside the gate that led from the road to the spot where the body was found. He went up the road away from Cincinnati to see if he could find where the carriage turned, but found no marks of that kind. This corroborates Geo. Jackson's story, according to which the carriage turned on the road in the other direction.

George Dayton, a bartender, was placed on the stand, but was unable to answer any questions put to him. On cross-examination the prosecution had him identify a letter received from John Seward of Somerset, Ky., a detective, who has been working in the interest of Scott Jackson. The 'etter contained a formal statement of matters which Seward asked the witness to testify to when he should be called at the trial. A discussion arose upon the admissibility of this paper or letter and the court ruled it out.

ton will open the National Exposition of Electrical Appliances in the Industrial Arts building in this city. Elaborate preparation Electrical Appliances in the Industrial Arts building in this city. Elaborate preparation has been made for this event, and it is expected that the attendance will be large and include some of the most distinguished electricians in this country.

The convention is that of the National Electric Light Association, to which delegates have been sent representing more than 10,000 electric lighting plants in the United States, whose aggregate capital is in excess of 3750,000,000.

The principal feature of the opening exercises will be the turning on of a current of electricity generated by the waters of the Niagara River in the great power house of the Niagara Power Co., which current of electricity will be transmitted over an ordinary telegraph wire of the Western Union Co. The insulation of this line is such that no considerable amount of electrical energy for power purposes can be transmitted, but by the use of the recently invented two-phase Tesla system enough energy will be transmitted to establish beyond question, it is claimed, the feasibility of long-distance electric power transmission upon a commercial basis. The line will be 462 miles in length. The longest line heretofore ever established was from the falls of the Neckar to a point 110 miles distant.

Gov. Morton will, at the declaration that the exposition is open, discharge four pleces of artillery, one stationed in the public square in San Francisco, one in Augusta, Me., one in front of the public building at St. Paul and the other in a public park in New Orleans. This discharge is also accomplished by a current of electricity generated in Niagara and transmitted over the telegraph lines of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Co. It is with the sanction of the Secretary of War that the Government artillery service is to be brought into requisition.

titute in many cases that they regard sugar, coal and ice as luxuries and can dispense coal and ice as luxuries and can dispense with them at a pinch, but bread is the main subsistance of many, and if prices be raised there will be suffering.

The trust will probably be organized in this city and vicinity in the course of a day or two. The scheme was first broached last fall, when a group of capitalists sent circulars to the large wholesale bakers, asking whether or not a combination of the bakers could be formed, and, if so, how. The circular set forth that about $2,000,-000 annually is lost by allowing small dealers to return their stale loaves, and that if interests were pooled the supply of bread could be limited and the returns accordingly decreased. The matter was dropped at the time, as many of the bakers did not think it right to drive out the small bakers, but they did say that if the scheme were to be carried to a success a hot fight would have to be waged against the smaller producers. The fight was kept up, however, and now many of those who protested against the freezing out of small bakers have been induced to think that big fortunes can be made out of consolidation of interests.

It is probable that at a meeting of the

It is probable that at a meeting of the master bakers' association to be held on Wednesday the matter will become crystallized and become a trust in fact.

ELECTRICITY'S RIVAL. Compressed Air as a Motive Power on the Manhattan "L."

NEW YORK, May 4.—Electricity has a rival. It is compressed air, with which experiments are being made with regard to its possible use as a motive power on the Manhattan Elevated Railroad. This statement was made by Daniel W. McWilliams, Secretary of the company, and also by Lawson N. Fuller.

The claims made for compressed air by its advocates are that it causes less vibration than steam, thus saving the "L" structure, and that the lines can be equipped with it more cheaply than with any kind of electrical power.

has cut short the career of murderer Will Bendy. Saturday evening the last report came in that a strong posse had Bendy surrounded in a big thicket about half a mile from Buna, and that he was almost sure to be captured.

Sunday morning early a message was received that Bendy had left the thicket and had sought refuge in the home of his brother-in-law, and there the determined party found him. He was not quick enough in yielding, when a shot rang out that brought him to his senses. This was at 3 o'clock in the morning.

The shot wounded him and he began running. When about fifty yards away he gave in and was led by the crowd to the Old Orange and Jasper dirt road. A suitable tree was found and he was swung up. Through the still night air rang out the shots of thirty cool and determined men who had taken the law into their own hands. His body was riddled with builets.

Spring wheat seeding in 1891 was just about as late as it is this spring. According to the Market Record, seeding was about half done in North Dakota by May 4 and by the 10th was well along in the drier portions. This delay was due to rains. The apring wheat yield of 1891 was reported by the Government as 219,285,000 bu. Last year it was 500,861,000 bu.

India increased its wheat exports very appreciably last week, the 312,000 bu shipped exceeding week before by 304,000 bu, and 300,000 bu larger than corresponding week last year. Since April 1 that country has exported 524,000 bu or 812,000 bu less than same week last year. The manager replied that he had not. "Ah, that's all right. I wrote one out, but told the landlady not to send it. You can never tell what a landlady will do, however. "Been queer, then?"

Nor were her appearances before the overmantel in the drawing-room mere casualties. There was something deliberate about the way in which she now for the first time, after residing in the house as long as she could remember, discovered that the way to the kitchen, to the pantry, to her father's study, and to her mother's boudoir always took her within sight of that gratifying looking-glass.

But Mr. Kendal came home alone, and a little cloud rapidly traveled over her face, and obscured the sunshine which had hitherto played there. She kissed her father with something of a protesting manner, and failed to observe that it was with an added tenderness and with a strange embarrassment that her father returned her salute.

Quaranta was a man of mysfery. All his neighbors believed that he had sold his soul to the devil and that his Satanic majesty waited upon his beck and call. The first part of the book is devoted to a description of the manner in which the Prince of Evil might be summoned by those who desired to have communication with him. The manual also gives many prayers to the devil. One is:

"O great Lucifer, I command you to come to me in accordance with your agree.

"O great Lucifer, I command you to come to me in accordance with your agreement, without loud noise or vile smell, that you may hear my wishes and that you may grant them."

In the trunk with this volume was a blank book filled with letters addressed to the Evil One, and in this book was also found the compact alleged to have been made between Quaranta and Lucifer himself. The autographs of the Prince of Devils corresponds with that shown in the original black book. The authorities believe that Quaranta was enticed from his home by some of his terrified companions and killed.

WAR BETWEEN NEIGHBORS.

A Tall Division Fence Nearly Causes Bloodseed.

F. J. Meyer of 4650 South Broadway called on Col. Dick Johnson Monday morning to secure a warrant against his next door neighbor, James'A. Smith, the ice man. Between the two residences is a narrow, unmade thoroughfare, known as Gibbons street. The Meyer family have been using it as a short-cut passage and Smith erected a high fence "just for meannes," according to Mrs. Meyer, who accompanied her husband.

Trouble has been brewing for some time and affairs came to a climax Monday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer saw a board off the fence and attempted to pass through. On the other side was Smith and three or four negroes. Smith dared them to cross the dead line, Meyer says, and drew a revolver on him and threatened to shoot Mrs. Meyer when she interfered.

Smith was arrested. Capt, Boyd referred the complainants to the warrant office and Col. Johnson referred them to Judge Zimmerman of the Carondelet Police Court for a summons.

The delegates were early in their seats and the spectators were more numerous than on any previous day.

Bishop Merrill of Chicago presided and the first hymn was announced by Rev. Dr. Huriburt of the Sunday-school Union. A fervent prayer was offered by Dr. Huriburt, after which the business of the morning was taken up.

Rev. H. A. Buchtel of Indiana desired the Episcopal address read in every pulpit. The conference adopted a resolution to send a copy to each pastor.

Dr. Mueller of Cleveland presented a resolution favoring arbitration for all Englishspeaking countries, which was adopted and a copy ordered sent to the President of the United States.

The exciting feature of the day was when Dr. Monroe presented to the conference a written statement from the four women delegates. It looked as though this statement might solve the perplexed woman question, but it did not. Following is part of the statement:

"The chief question at issue now seems to us to arise over the method to be nursued upon this. We recognize honest differences of opinions among the most intelligent and conscientious members. It seems to us that were the conference relieved from the tension which our presence occasions, it might speedily devise a plan of admission upon which the great majority of the members could agree. While we sincerely regret to disappoint the chivairous champions of woman's elegibility, we cannot consent to a protracted debate over our personal eligibility to this conference with the alienations which we fear such a struggle might cause. We therefore cheerfully relinquish our seats in your honorable body and await such a settlement of a long vexed question as your wisdom may devise, confident that your action will embody the spirit of the golden rule. We desire to express our appreciation of the courtesy shown us and assure you that we shall continue to pray and to labor for the prosperity of our Zion."

The statement was presented by Jane F. Bashford, Lois S. Parker and Ada C. Butcher.

No sooner had the communication of the women delegates been offered than Dr. Kynett, Chairman of the Committee on the Eligibility, submitted the majority report of the committee had decided that the women were entitled to seats in the convention. Several delegates arose to defend the report, but there was a universal demand for the minority report. It was a lengthy document and was read by Dr. T. B. Nealy of Philadelphia. It found that the challenge of the eligibility of the women whose names appear on the roll of the General Conference is sustained, and that the election of women by lay electoral conferences are lilegal acts, and that to seat the claimants would tend to destroy, all respect for the constitution of the church and for the decisions and interpretations of the General Conference.

EXPRESSMEN'S STRIKES.

Indications That It Will Spread Over Large System.

NEW YORK May 4.—The initial step has been taken by employes of the Adams Express Co. in a strike that may possibly affect the 10,000 men employed by that corporation. Eight porters in the immense freight house street, adjoining the New York Central freight yards, walked out in a body recensly. The action of those men will be supported by the company's men in Washington, D. C., where they will stop work, as the result of a heavy cut in wages and an increase of working hours.

A committee representing clerks, drivers, porters and stablemen will at once call upon L. C. Weir, President of the company with a list of grievances. The committeemen will insist on some assurance that their demands be attended to within a reasonable time or else a general strike will follow. The trouble is attributed by the men to President Weir, who has, they say, largely reduced the working forces and cut down the wages, but falled to curtail the working hours. street, adjoining the New York Central

A VOICE FROM KENTUCKY. An Allegation Which an "Old Stager" Considers Very Amusing.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch. Various newspapers in this State in favor of Carlisle and the gold standard are consoling themselves with an editorial of yours that Kentucky is a pivotal or doubtful State on the chief issue in American poli-This is amusing to an old stager. I remember in the decade of 1830 to 1840, when Jackson removed the deposits from the national banks to the Sub-Treasury, hard times ensued from the combined influences of the money grinders. A $1,000 negro man sold at forced sale for $150 and all of our property in the same proportion. W. H. Harrison and John Tyler were elected over Van Buren and his ticket. The cry of the campaign was "$2 a day and roast beef for the laborer" (more decent than Mr. Carlisle's Chicago speech). Harrison died in a month after his inauguration and the Whis Congress passed a bill rechartering the national banks and sent it to President Tyer, who vetoed it, and in six months we had unusually good times.

I was at the National Convention that ominated Douglass and Breckinridge a Baltimore in 1860, resulting in the war with its terrible results. I have hunted foxes over the place where Lincoln was born. I have presided as Circuit Judge over the count where his parents married, and I have seen the original marriage license. I for two years was supreme vice-president, for four years supreme president of the Catholic Knights of America, and thousands in you State know me.

The pronoun (I) appears too often, but you will excuse it. I saw J. G. Carlisle sworn in as a member of the Kentucky Legislature in 1853, the first office he ever held; have watched with pride and pleasure his promotions from that time until his entry as Secretary of the Treasury, up to which time he made a consistent, I am sure not an ignorant, record on financial legislation. There never was, is not now and never politics of earth. One is the love of liberty. claim for the Democracy from Jefferson to two, is properly symbolized by the serpent, bargain and intrigue, the burning of witches, the alien and sedition laws, and many other acts of tyranny, including the civil war. Mark the party that worships at the shrine. The newspapers all over the country seem to think Mr. Carlisle is the only man in Kentucky of any importance, and some have implored him and his sort to come and stump the State. It may be regarded as kentucky of any importance, and some have implored him and his sort to come and stump the State. It may be regarded as temerity, but I will guarantee that he will have company on the hustings. I wish to state right here that before the last National Convention I wrote to Mr. Carlisle, soliciting him to join shields with my name-sake, W. E. Russell of Massachusetts, as a candidate, Carlisle for President and the other for Vice-President. The Democratio party has ever since the war gone north for candidates for President, and that is the sole reason why the Republicans, aided by military force, have elected every President since the war, all of their candidates being from the West.

But you will say, Your last State Convention indorsed Cleveland and Carlisle. Yes, through fraud, which was demonstrated at the legal election. Who defeated the Democratic State ticket last election Eighty-five thousand stupid negroes, fifty thousand white men sailing under the badge of the serpent, loaves and fishes gentlemen. The residue Carlisle gold standard voters, mostly bankers. Hardin and our ticket received 163,000 votes of the Caucasian race, many thousand more than any other Democrat ever received. Who defeated Blackburn for the United States Senate? Six hipeds elected as Democrats, but who as followers of Carlisle had no choice between a Democrat and Republican.

Now, take these figures and is it not fully demonstrated that Carlisle's only chance to carry Kentucky is as the nominee at St. Louis, not Chicago? Mr. Carlisle surely knows that the 183,000 that voted for Hardin and his ticket will never forgive his gold standard followers for electing Bradiey, who called out the militia to interfere with the State Legislature. But why should not that? Is it for the purpose of betraying gold men? McKinley may be the nominee on nominee at Chicago? Mr. Carlisle? He and Sherman agree on fiscal laffairs and Republicans cry out for the gold standard platform, so be it. The east of the western base of the Alleghenies, of all states wil Know-nothingism was the successor of the old Whig party, and on the 4th of August, 1855, George D. Prentice wrote "Make ready, take aim, fire and may the Lord have mercy on their souls," and the next day "Bloody Monday" at Louisville went into the shameful history of those who love power better than liberty. I will close by a quotation from Andrew Jackson: "It is not in a splendid government, supported by powerful monopolies and aristocratic establishments, that the people will find their liberties secure, but in a plain system, void of pomp, protecting all and granting favors to none."

The city of Louisville, to its everlasting shame, is dominated by this A. P. A.-ism and Republicanism to the damage of its character and commerce. For this or some other reason not understood by me, I have been unable to get the Courier-Journal to announce that I am a candidate for delegate for the State at large to the Chicago Convention.

The serpentine Democracy day before yesterday met at the Galt House at Louisville and Nashville Railroad. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad defeated P. W. Hardin eight years ago for the nomination for Governor, and the bankers defeated in Democratic State ticket last election, P. W. Hardin leading the ticket I would warn these self-confident creatures of the law that they are not omnipotent. I would sylurither that the maintenance of the liberty of the people of America can not be preto served if the present banking system is continued.
